

Cultural capital is a term used to describe the social and cultural advantage that some people have, usually when they have more wealth. This social or cultural advantage results in more opportunities to move up in the world. However, other sources of cultural capital include knowledge, skills and education, because social networks and culture add real value. Ofsted describe it as 'the essential knowledge that pupils need to be educated citizens, and that it is our role to introduce children to the best that has been thought and said and help them to engender an appreciation of human creativity, achievement and ambition.'

I ASKED THE LITTLE BOY WHO CANNOT SEE BY UNKNOWN AUTHOR

I asked the little boy who cannot see,
 "And what is colour like?"
 "Why, green," said he,
 "Is like the rustle when the wind blows through
 The forest; running water, that is blue;
 And red is like a trumpet sound; and pink
 Is like the smell of roses; and I think
 That purple must be like a thunderstorm;
 And yellow is like something soft and warm;
 And white is a pleasant stillness when you lie
 "And dream."
